DIY GAME INSTRUCTIONS

- Scan the QR codes to download the game board and pieces to your mobile device.
- Go to a print shop and have the map illustrations to be made double-sided, in full-color, 18 × 20 laminated paper. You can decide the thickness of the Gameboard. You can
- also laminate it in plastic, 18 x 20 [Your choice].
- Game Pieces Print the pages of game pieces in full color, 18 x 20, 8.5 × 14.

How to play the Game?

- Place the game board on a table or floor where you choose to play the game
- Take the state cards and capital cards that have been cut out, and place them in a jar to be mixed (8 to 10-ounce mixing jar not provided)
- Every player chooses a letter card and token stand (not provided)
- Players will determine the order of play by deciding who will go first, second, third, or fourth. The first player selects a card from the jar; if the card is a state card, the player must know where the state is on the map. If the player knows, the state is added to his collection. If not, the card is placed back into the jar.
- STATE CARDS: when players receive ten state cards, they can add a letter to the game, having an additional turn on the next play.
- CAPITAL CARDS When a player picks a Capital card, they must name the capital of the state they have landed on. If the answer is correct, the player adds the capital card to their collection
- THE GAME OVER game is over when the players have answered all the state cards; the winner is the player with the most state and capital cards.

THE DELIVERING ACROSS AMERICA BOARD GAME INSTRUCTIONS

Game design for K - Junior High Players learn the geography of the USA States and the Capitals. Each player takes a turn choosing a card from the jar containing the names of the states and Capitals. When a player correctly places and names the state on the map where they are located, the card is added to their collection. If a player picks a capital card from the jar and can name the state's capital on which their token has landed, they can also add the capital card to their collection. If not, the cards are placed in the draw stack till the end of the game.

After a player collects 10 Capital cards, they may add another Letter card to the game board, giving them two plays on their turn and repeat the process, depending on the player's decision for the game. The winner will be the player that has collected the most state and capital cards.
